leadership

In our current and future world, we believe that real and successful teams are being organized to create new products, practices, and programs. Teams are being used to redesign organizations, develop new business practices, and implement them. It is becoming a more common practice for companies to place their upper executives into executive teams to improve overall communication and effectiveness. The fact that teams and teamwork have been around a long time and that this practice is getting even more attention stimulates much study fueled by the need to understand how to make teams the most effective and productive. We offer a straightforward answer to this need. Successful teams result from good leadership and good leadership is much more than putting people in the same room, giving them an assignment, scheduling meetings, and calling them a team.

High-quality leadership, however, is neither a natural ability that one inherits nor a lucky combination of good people put together. Good leaders demonstrate a set of skills based on real knowledge about teams and leadership, artfully applied in a very unique setting of people working closely together where high performance requires a level of cooperation and trust seldom achieved elsewhere.

We believe the objective of any team should be to accomplish so much it qualifies to be called a high performance team. High performance teams produce extraordinary results because team members are individually effective and work with one another in ways that expand and enlarge each individual's contribution. This seminar is designed to teach you how to develop and apply such extraordinary leadership.

Leadership Doctrines

Consider these statements of “leadership doctrines.” These doctrines are integral to a general theory of leadership. They lead to principles that define the effective process of leading.

1. Leaders Activate the Freedom to Choose

Human beings are the most intelligent of all creations and are uniquely and inherently free to choose. Even though some people may resist freedom and the responsibility which comes with it, they achieve more and sustain their performance better when their freedom is activated by those who lead them. Leaders who activate the freedom to choose use the inviting words, “will you?” rather than “you will.”

2. Leaders Create Accountability and Responsibility

Leaders create accountability and responsibility by involving others in setting goals and developing plans. Along with their option to choose, people have some measure of power in pursuing and achieving their goals, to act and not only be acted upon. Accountability and responsibility are greater when leaders involve those they lead in developing the means or methods of achieving and measuring the results.

3. Leaders Motivate and Inspire by Establishing High Standards of Performance

People generally have goals to preserve and enhance life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. They are more motivated and inspired to achieve when leaders establish high standards of performance and link them to followers’ individual goals and objectives.

4. The Power of Leadership is Shared with Those Who Are Led

The choices of one person are tempered by the choices of others, thereby restricting the ability to act unilaterally or to stop others from acting even where there is enough time and there are enough resources to spare. Coercion, threat, or any other form of excessive control may temporarily move people to act but eventually will diminish their willingness to achieve.

5. Leaders Bring People Together in a Common Cause

People voluntarily align themselves with others to increase the power to achieve their goals when there is a possibility for all to agree on a common vision and strategy. Performance is accelerated when leaders take advantage of people’s willingness to join with others in a common effort.

6. Leadership is Based on the Integrity and Moral Character of the Leader

People follow those whose moral character they trust and whom they judge will be beneficial in their lives without loss of power to choose and act. All achievement begins as a belief in leaders whose personal lives exemplify integrity.

7. Leaders transform People and Organizations

Leaders, allies and followers exchange power and influence as stewards of resources and opportunities, transforming their lives and circumstances to the end that all participants benefit. Effective leaders forthrightly identify personal and organizational changes that must be made to accomplish new levels of achievement and willingly change themselves.

8. Leaders Find and Prepare Other Leaders

Leaders extend their influence by organizing and institutionalizing the role of high-quality leadership which includes finding and nurturing other leaders who in turn help to transform those people and organizations they serve.

Team Leadership System

- Fostering Trust™

Trust is the intangible bond between leader and follower that is the basis for all leadership.

- Creating Vision™

Vision is a view of the future people create themselves or accept from others. A vision presents risk and requires sacrifice but excites and inspires.

- Developing Strategy™

Strategy is the essential plan which focuses and organizes the work of achievement. It links effort to outcome by bringing people and resources together, dividing the work, forming sequences of performance, establishing accountability, and giving meaning to responsibility.

- Energizing Alliances™

Personal and organizational achievement typically result from the joined efforts of people who forge alliances based on the belief that efforts to achieve will produce mutual benefits; skill at creating alliances is basic to success.

- Activating Transformations™

Changes in individual performance and changes in organizational practice are necessary to achieve new results. Facing change forthrightly is part of successful leadership.

- Measuring Progress, Achieving Results, and Resetting the Vision™

Actively measuring progress maintains focus and permits course corrections before time runs out.

STRATEGIC PLAN SUPPORTING ACTIONS FOR FINANCIAL LITERACY - YEAR 2010

Jason Plank
Director

Fostering Trust:

Frequent and scheduled communication within the committee will allow each committee member to accept and accomplish specific tasks that they have agreed to accomplish. Committee chair will also accomplish and report on specific tasks agreed to and accomplished. We will identify a vice director for the committee to smooth transition to new leadership in 2011.

External to the committee, we will communicate frequently with other FPA-MN committees and look for opportunities for the Financial Literacy & Stability Committee to work with and fulfill its mission through cooperation with other committees. We will also establish lines of communication with outside organizations that can help FPA Financial Literacy & Stability Committee fulfill its mission.

Creating Vision:

We will identify opportunities for members to help build a financially literate community. We will identify opportunities for FPA to assist members in achieving professional and personal fulfillment. We will also work with other committees to increase awareness of the FPA within the community, especially that segment of the community that our members seek to serve.

Developing Strategy:

We will achieve these goal by building a cadre of members who wish to volunteer and members who wish to be included in a speakers bureau. These volunteers and speakers will be utilized by complementary organizations that foster financial literacy within specific population segments. These organizations will include local not-for-profit organizations, schools, employers, community organizations and professional organizations.

Energizing Alliances:

Internal allies are, of course, committee as well as board and FPA members. External allies are the not-for-profit organizations and community organizations that need volunteers and speakers on financial literacy. We continue to build relationships with BestPrep, Junior Achievement and the Minnesota Jump$tart Coalition for Personal Financial Literacy. We will foster relationships with community libraries and higher education. Future alliances may be built with the Minnesota Department of Commerce, Financially Fit Minnesota, Twin Cities Public Television, other not for profit organizations and other professional organizations as capacity allows and opportunities arise.

Activating Transformations:

Each committee member will be responsible for specific duties for the committee. We will need people contacting the members to get volunteers, we will need people building relationships in the community to sign up organizations and we will need a method of evaluating speakers who speak on behalf of the FPA. These duties will be assigned based on the skills and interest of the committee members. We will find volunteers, committee members and community resources by effectively communicating the benefits of this work to the volunteers and the community.

Measuring Progress, Achieving Results, and Resetting the Vision:

We will measure our results by the number of volunteers and speakers in our database, by the number of placements of volunteers and speakers, by the number of organizations in our database and by the relationships we are developing in the community.
